

Coulson Ice Blast Announces Partnership with Moose First Company

Moose First Company to act as distributor for Bahamas and Florida, as well as operating fleet of IceStorm⁹⁰™ machines

From left: Tom Costello (Director of Sales at Coulson Ice Blast) and Paavo Leego (CEO of Moose First Company) after shaking on a partnership between Moose First Company and Coulson Ice Blast

Freeport, Grand Bahamas, [June 6, 2017] Coulson Ice Blast is proud to announce our partnership with Moose First Company LTD., who will be a distributor of our machines and accessories, as well as offering cleaning services using a fleet of IceStorm⁹⁰™ machines. Moose First Company was established in Freeport, Grand Bahamas, with a focus on shipbuilding and repair, specializing in stainless steel products and HVAC systems. They have since grown, starting up offices in Florida and working on large cruise liners. However, after seeing the potential of Coulson Ice Blast, they are branching out into industrial cleaning for all industries.

Moose First Company has a pioneering spirit, seeking out the latest technologies to provide the best possible solutions to their clients. They have been seeking to enter the industrial cleaning industry for a long time, spending the past year researching and testing different technologies in an attempt to find a technology that would work for them, before eventually discovering and settling on Coulson Ice Blast.

Paavo Leego, CEO of Moose First Company, found out about the technology through a tradeshow and became excited about its incredible potential. But seeing pictures and videos is different from using the machine and seeing it in action, so he visited the offices of Coulson Ice Blast to see it for himself. He found no surprises; “Really what I expected, coming here”, he replied when asked for his impression after seeing the machine blasting. He purchased four IceStorm⁹⁰™ machines on the spot.

After searching so long for the right industrial cleaning technology, Moose First Company believes strongly that using ice as a blasting media just makes sense and decided to become a distributor of Coulson Ice Blast machines. Moose First Company will also be providing maintenance and repair services for our machines.

“I’m glad I can be part of this fabulous company”, said Paavo, while shaking on the partnership with Foster Coulson, head of Coulson Ice Blast. We feel the same way about Moose First Company and are excited about the future of our partnership.